This user guide describes how to connect the set-top box to the home hub and TV and how to navigate using the remote control and keyboard, the TV portal and services, along with a few settings that can be useful to know.

1. From the home hub you set up the distribution network. You can read more about this in the guide ‘Excavation and cabling’. A wireless TV set up can replace Ethernet cable between the set-top box and the home hub.

2. The start package includes a 10 m network cable. If you need further cables these are available from computer equipment stores. Use an non-twisted network cable Cat. 5E or higher category, between the home hub and the set-top box.

3. You connect the cable from the home hub to the point where the TV and set-top box are to be located. You connect the network cable to the home hub in one of the ports marked Ethernet 2-4. The network cable is then connected to the rear of the set-top box in the socket marked ETHERNET. If you have more than three TVs, you must use a single network switch that supports 100Mbps. These are also available from computer equipment suppliers.
4. How to connect the set-top box to the home hub and TV:

For further information – see guide that comes with the set-top box or see altibox.no/brukerveiledninger

We recommend that you use HDMI cable that almost all TVs made after 2005 have. HDMI will give the best picture quality. Follow the instructions on the set-top box on start-up, or see the installation guide that came with the set-top box.

To be connected to the set-top box

Home hub

TV
Wireless TV

1. Connect the unit marked 'BASE' to the power and the network cable to the TV socket on the home hub.

2. Connect the other (unmarked) unit (receiver) to the power. Then connect the network cable to the set-top box.

3. Wait 60 seconds, then the system will be ready for use.
ALTIBOX TV 1 Connect to home hub

WIRELESS TV – EXTRA RECEIVER

1. Make sure that the unit marked 'BASE' is connected to the power and by a network cable to a TV socket on the home hub.

2. Connect the extra receiver to the power and with the network cable to the set-top box.

3. Wait 60 seconds then the WPS button for two seconds on the extra receiver.

4. You now have 2 minutes to press the WPS button for two seconds on the unit marked 'BASE'.

5. The system is ready for use.
5. Start-up: When the set-top box is connected to the TV, the home hub and the power supply, you will see a similar picture on the screen:

If you do not see the picture, check that you have selected the correct socket on the TV.

6. The set-top box is now connected to a network and will download the required software. Wait until the download process has completed.

7. The dots on the screen will change colour during the start-up of the system. Initially, all of the dots will be grey. If the connection fails, you will see the following message: 'Tv-portal utilgjengelig' (TV portal unavailable). All five dots will be green when the system is ready. In the installation guide that came with the set-top box you will find further information concerning possible reasons and solutions if the TV portal continues to be unavailable.

Here you can also manage recordings, and delete them.

RECORDING VIA A TABLET OR MOBILE DEVICE WITH ALTIBOX
TV OVERALT

Control your Altibox services from anywhere.
Download the Altibox TV Overalt (Anywhere) app. It’s free!
Select the desired set-top box to control it. You can set recordings, notifications or future channel changes. You can also see and manage stored recordings and select which channels are to be shown in the TV Guide.
'Innstillinger' (Settings) is found in the TV portal under 'Tjenester' (Services) by navigating downwards in the menu. Here you will find many useful functions, among others:

Lyd/bilde (Sound/picture):

Here, you will find the following, for example:

Bildeformat (Picture format): Several of the major TV channels broadcast programmes in wide-screen format (16:9). If you have a traditional 4:3 format TV, you can set the set-top box so that it adapts the wide-screen programmes so that the picture is shown in the correct proportions (the picture is scaled down in size, but retains the correct proportions).

Lydmodus (Sound mode): There are two sound modes to choose from: Analogue or SPDIF (digital). Analogue will always provide stereo sound to all outputs; SPDIF (digital) will provide 5.1 Surround on HDMI, SPDIF and TOSLINK outputs on broadcasts that carry these. Note that in AC-3 sound mode, volume adjustment will be deactivated and handed over to the amplifier on channels that have digital soundtracks.

Språk (Languages): You can select different languages for menus, audio language, and the language for subtitles. The selection of languages and subtitles is channel-dependent. You can also prioritise audio language, and the set-top box will select the language you have given priority to.

Sort channels/hide channels/favourites:

You can create your own channel list and delete channels that you do not wish to see.
